The Recorder appears to be taking a deeper interest in the selection of the republican candidates for city officers than of candidates in its own party. The republicans will attend to their own business, however, just the same.

Last evening when Clerk Featon called the roll of aldermen only four members were present to answer to their names—Aldermen Carpenter, Fathers, Rooney and Thoroughgood, and President Fathers, who complied the chair, declared the meeting adjourned for want of a quorum.

Roid Bros. have sold their stylish imported Clydeville stallion, "Logie Farmer" by "Logie the Laird" to Messrs. Duff & Price, of Burlington, Wis. The firm are Norman men but when they come to see the style and movement of Logie they could not resist buying. This makes twelve horses the Roids have sold.

Miss M. A. O'Neil, who has been in Chicago for several days past, has returned. The result of her visit appears in the window devoted to her millinery department at Archie Roid's. There are spring hats, ribbons and flowers in bewildering variety. The attractions that it holds out to the gentler sex are surprising.

The onward slur put upon one of Jamestown's most popular singers through the medium of the Rockford Register and the Recorder of this city, has given rise to but one sentiment—that of the most thorough contempt and disgust. What the animus of the writer could have been is a mystery. The attack is so utterly despicable that no answer is needed.

Among the attractive features of the Children's Musical Society concert to-morrow evening will be a solo "When the Swallows Come" by Phinetti, which will be given by Miss Hattie Peake and White's "Chickadee Song" by little Adie Crockett. Miss Hattie Crockett will also repeat her solo which was most favorably received by those present at the last concert.

ever being manifest toward the regular candidates. Chief Engineer Henry Black was chosen to succeed himself, and J. F. Hutchinson and Geo. H. Osgood were selected as assistants. The selections were by a unanimous vote, and very complimentary to the gentlemen chosen.

—Evidently the democrats are on the "ragged edge" regarding their chances for success at the coming election. Anticipating the loss of power in the common council should the republicans elect their candidates, the official organ imagines it sees numerous slates, bearing names of reputable citizens for the several positions, and it tries to throw mud all over the imaginary markings. Just all over next Tuesday evening, Mr. Recorder, when the republicans assemble in the several wards. The Gazette will give you credentials to be present at these primaries as a democratic witness in the manner of making nominations by the people, provided you will give your word of honor that you will not attempt to vote, or assist in nominating a candidate who the masses of the republicans do not desire. There will be a basket social, in the old Congregational church on Thursday evening of next week, March 29th. It is a very interesting affair.

The country roads, particularly the cross ones running north and south are in bad shape on account of the large accumulation of snow in them.

The old Congregational church is now utilized for social and other purposes. The middle tier of pews has been taken out and tables and a cook stove put in for the purpose of holding entertainments, festivals, etc.

The entertainment to be held in the Congregational church April 1st, and preparatory services the Saturday previous.

Another Electric Light.

A St. Paul Syndicate Anxious to Put in the Incandescent System.

They Offer to Invest $30,000 If Given a One Year's Franchise.

Jamestown is likely soon to have her present systems of lighting supplemented by the Edison incandescent system.

One of the members of the Edison Electric Light company, of St. Paul, is now in the city. He has looked over the ground; is satisfied that by the end of the year another electric light system to the city could be made to pay, and offers in exchange for an exclusive franchise for a year, to put in a plant valued at $30,000, capable of operating fifteen hundred lamps.

A proposition to that effect would have been made by him to the common council last evening had the meeting not adjourned for lack of a quorum. As it is, he has telegraphed for his partner, who will reach the city to-morrow morning. Before the next council meeting some definite arrangements will be made.

According to the plans now made, the plant, supposing of course that it is not in, will be run by steam and will be ready for operation within three months after the contracts are signed. The stock to be held entirely by the Edison Company.

ALD. THOROUGHGOOD.

He Explains the Second Ward School House Question—A Candidate for Re-election.

To the Editor.

I have been asked several times if it was true I had made an effort to have the second ward school matter laid over until after the coming municipal election, for the reason, I had championed the enterprise from the start one year ago, and by staying the matter it would lead to my re-election for another term. A few words will knock that assertion flat. The question came before the council on the adoption of the specifications, etc. This was referred to the committee on schools (of which I was not a member). On my motion the council adjourned until the Monday following for the special purpose of hearing the report of said committee. On the afternoon previous to the meeting Monday night, I personally visited a number of the aldermen to get their attendance, the two in the first ward I could not find, but after six o'clock, sent a note to each one by one of our employees. The consequence was they were on hand, and we had a unanimous vote in its favor. The second ward will now have a school, heated with steam, and one that parents will not be afraid of sending their children to at any time. This is a settled fact, whether your humble servant is a candidate for alderman in the second ward for the next two years or not. In closing, I will state with all due respect to the members of the common council, that the work of adopting the measure which was fully reported at the time, did not take two minutes, which was very pleasing to Ald. Judd and myself. I am in no way anxious for reelection, but I am glad to have been requested by a large number of second ward taxpayers to allow my name to appear as a candidate. I have decided to do so. If I fail, there will be no sorrow on my part whatever.

Respectfully,

J. THOROUGHGOOD.

OBITUARY.

HENRY HADON.

Died, in Milton, March 14th, of heart and stomach trouble, Henry Hadon, aged 39 years and 9 months. Deceased was born in Barabtsale, Barabtsale county, Mass. June 14th, 1848. He came from Massachusetts to Rochester, New York, with his parents in 1854, from thence to Rock county in 1864. In the same year he returned to New York and in 1866 moved his family to Johnston where he resided many years, I respected and honored by neighbors and friends. Fourteen years ago he moved to Milton where his health would no longer allow him to follow his loved vocation. Uncle Henry was a man of sterling integrity and christian character. Although diseased for many years he bent the slender body, yet could we say of him, "Rebelle the upright man." He leaves a sorrowing wife and two children, Mr. Myron O. Bacon and Mrs. Anna C. Ward, of Rockford. His eldest son David, preceded him one year and four months.

Thus one by one we are passing to that "bourn from which no traveler returns."

IN MEMORIAM.

Death claims a husband, father, friend: We cannot tell him "why."

He leaves his sharpened sickle in And mingles them away.

To the old, the young, the strong, the weak, All are doomed to die; But God is here, and He will take His children home or hither.

Why do we mourn a loved one's death, When we are told that death is but a sleep, And that we shall meet him again, And give them rest and peace?

The well known form now used by us The grave now calls to us: Ourselves, sadly, we shall miss: Dear father, rest on hence.

The angel left, the spirit fled: The funeral rites are o'er; We stop and think, "who shall be next?" To tread that unknown shore.

Do not weep, O do not mourn: Death's but the open door For all our loved and dearly ones. To pass through, to the golden shore.

A Friend.

BORN, BAILEY & Co.

At the Literary Club Entertainment Last Night.

That the Court Street Literary Club entertainment last night was a success, can not be questioned. The programme was one which is seldom equaled, and the warmth with which the various numbers were received showed the audience to be thoroughly appreciative.

At half-past seven, when the opening number, a piano solo by Miss Jessie Stuckey, was announced, there were nearly two hundred people in the room.

Others continued to arrive, and by eight o'clock not a seat was left unoccupied.

Miss Stuckey's solo was followed by a reading by Miss Kittie Myers, and a vocal solo by Miss F. R. Peake.

The violin solo by Professor Hayner, which came fourth on the programme, had been looked forward to with pleasant anticipations and those anticipations were more than realized. Professor Hayner showed a command over the bow that was wonderful. Additional charm was given to the music by the piano and violinello accompaniment by Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Lewis. A responsive and enthusiastic applause was insisted upon. An equally flattering reception was accorded Mrs. F. W. Christian, whose narrative, "Cecilia and Cynthia," held the audience as though spell-bound.

A charmingly rendered piano solo by Miss Rose Hathorn, preceded the tableaux, "The Flower of the Family," and "Easy On Man."
